

A. H. Couch Research Scholarship 2021

The A. H. Couch Trust aim is to enhance the heart health of New Zealanders.

The intent of this Scholarship is to support a cardiologist-in-training to accomplish a small research project. It is expected that this will be undertaken either before, during or at the end of cardiology advanced training. The project is to be undertaken within New Zealand.

The Fellowship covers:

- A living stipend of $85,000 tax-free per annum. The minimum duration of the scholarship is 6 months half-time, the maximum duration is 12 months full-time. The stipend will be paid pro rata.
- $15,000 project funding

It is expected that a scientific presentation and a peer-reviewed publication will arise from this Scholarship.

The application must specify the supervisor and details of the proposed project, including a detailed time-line for completion that takes account of other commitments.
